

Celestron spare parts

September 11th 2010

After many years of customers complaining finally in summer 2010 Celestron started to offer spare parts for their telescopes. As some people have been reporting difficulties finding and accessing the spare parts list on the Celestron website I decided to post it here. You will find enclosed the status of the available spare parts including the price in US$ as of September 11th 2010. I will most likely not update this list frequently. My intent is to give you a rough idea about what's available and a feeling for the cost. Please note that this offer is only valid for people in the USA. You should contact your local dealer if you live outside USA.
